It was 3:45 o'clock when the first section pulled into the west end of the Grand Trunk yards here. A red light was hung on the rear car to stop the second. Engineer Bropst of Battle Creek, who was running the engine of the rear train, says he saw this light and applied the air brakes. To his horror they refused to work. He reversed his engine, but the momentum of the train bahind him was too great, and with a crash that aroused all of the town the two trains met.

Three cars of the stationary first section were telescoped and the engine and five cars of the moving train were demolished. The rear car of the first section was a caboose, in which the trainmen were sleeping, and the next two, were filled with sleeping circus employes. The greatest loss of life was in the caboose solution by Judge Creighton yesterday of the temporary injunction which restrained the Commission from using any of the appropriation.

As Representative Richard E. Burke, who appied for the injunction, has notified the Auditor to pay out none of the appropriation, pending the carrying of the case to the Supreme Court, Auditor McCullough has asked Attorney General Hamiin for an opinion on the subject. If the Attorney General decides that the Canal Commissioners should receive the money without further delay the warrant will be issued as requested; otherwise, the funds of the commission may be tied up for a year or two at least, even with a final favorable decision in the courts.

that the additional equipment cannot be installed too soon. Chief Swingley has recommended that one engine company be located in the district bounded by Pierce and Macklind avenues and by Manchester and Berthold avenues, and that the other be stationed in the listrict between Morgan street and Wash-the northwestern part of St. Louis will have a No. 2 engine that will throw a Painc's stream.

Chief Swingley has not made an estimate of the probable coat of the proposed improvements, but he will do so if requested by the Municipal Assembly.

Each fire engine, however, will cost at least $4,500, while the prices of hose wagons range from $450 to $1,600. The last enginehouse that was built, located at No. 3500 South Grand avenue, cost $9,80. That enginehouse could not be duplicated now, it is said, for less than $18,000, But the new enginehouses may not be as valuable as is the one at No. 3500 South Grand avenue. Chief Swingley is also making plans for better fire protection on the World's Fair grounds. He has not developed his plans sufficiently, however, to discuss them.

At present no municipal fire company is stationed on the Exposition grounds, though one of the assistant fire chiefs has been assigned to duty there, and the Exposition officials have arranged for fire protection. It is said that the Fire Chief believes it would be advisable to station a municipal fire company on the Exposition grounds before the Fair opens.

In consular dispatches from Monastir which were received this morning the opinion is expressed that the insurrection broke out a fortnight earlier than its chiefs intended and before the bands were in readiness, presumably because the leaders were disconcerted by the active preventive measures adopted by the authorities.

The Bulgarian inhabitants in some villinges have fied to the mountains for refuge. The railways have asked that the troops guarding the lines be quadrupled, but this would entail the employment of 20,000 soldiers, and, in view of the impoverished treasury, the Government will find it difficult to comply with the request.

JUST 5 YEARS LATER

Mr. Florse Writes, March 4, 1903, that Mother Could Not Live Without Cuticura.

received and will say in reply that my mother having used Cuticurs Ointment for twenty years or more, and having used other remedles, has found that no other remedles, has found that no other remedy will ease the pain and heal varieose ulcers like the Cuticura Remedies. Mother says she could not live without them."

H. L. MORSE No one ever deserts the Cuticurs Goap, Ointment or Pills. Once used, always used. In fact they have become domesticated in every household they
